Hirebotics (the "Company") is an innovative, high-growth automation company that has created a differentiated collaborative robot solution designed specifically for welding applications. Based in Nashville, Tennessee, Hirebotics' Cobot Welder is a revolutionary product that combines premium welding equipment and a robotic arm with easy-to-use robust proprietary software to help address an acute shortage of skilled welding technicians. In addition to direct sales, the Company maintains key industry partnerships with leading manufacturers and distributors of welding equipment to extend its market reach.

Five Points provided unitranche debt and equity co-investment to support the acquisition of Hirebotics by Sverica Capital Management.
